Dear Family member:

It is not possible to try and fit all that we saw and the steps Serving Our World took and experienced on our recent trip to East Timor and Thailand. What we would like to share with you are the people, the children, and the places we were led to. And the foundations we continued to lay down for those we were drawn to at this time, as we work together to build a Serving Our World family. A family that stretches across borders and cultures to those in need, in answering the question, "Will You?"

Building a family of such diversity takes all of us committed together to care for those that cannot be elevated from their present situation without help. And that's where Serving Our World together can respond.

Let me now take you on a photo journey outside the boundaries of city life and down dirt paths with wood stilt homes and thatched roof homes and show you what we together are already providing. We feel these are great opportunities for the Serving Our World family. Here we are already providing some of the daily essentials of life on a weekly basis.

So what does it take to set in motion building a home or a community program? A home that will change the future of those who now live with so little. Whatever your gift, it will be planted on the rich soil of those in need and bring a harvest that will continue on.

Look forward to our next month as we continue to share the progress of the Serving Our World family members as we to reach out to those who are un-reached.

Together touching lives,

Michael Thomforde
